The University of Montana football team will be involved in a game-conditions scrimmage, with the exception of kickoffs, Saturday afternoon at Dornblaser Stadium.

"We will have the second team offense and the first team defense on one side and the number one offensive unit and the number two defensive unit on the other side," Coach Jack Swarthout said. "This way we test the first team units against each other."

Swarthout said that he liked what he saw in last Saturday's scrimmage. "The defense looked strong as expected, but the offensive line was a surprise. We are very green there, but the blocking was very good Saturday," Swarthout commented.

Halfbacks Jim Olson and Ken Williams turned in some fine runs from scrimmage and the passing attack resulted in several scores. Swarthout said that Rock Svennungsen was particularly accurate with his passing in the scrimmage.

"We are coming along well. The defense is sound and the offense will be ready in time for the alumni game May 12," Swarthout concluded.
